Managing Construction Series Background:

For the first time, we are bringing virtual instructor-led expertise to your office through the synergy of multi-disciplinary trainers' knowledge that has only been delivered at conferences. Three trainers (Project Owner, Consultant and Contractor) will share their perspectives and expertise. And it gets better! In the past, conference presentations have been focused on a one-way exchange of know-how from the speakers to you. This workshop moves beyond that one-way exchange to allow you to apply what you have learned and provides the opportunity for participants to ask questions and tap into the extensive real-life experience and expertise of the diversity of our accomplished trainers.

Project Delivery Methods (DBB, CM, DB, IPD, P3) – “Know Your Responsibilities!” w/ Multi-Disciplinary Trainers

March 6, 7, 8, 2024

8:00 - Noon PDT

Whether you are a Project Owner, Consultant, or Contractor, understanding the many different project delivery options for a particular project is critical to its success. Moreover, ensuring that all project stakeholders “know their responsibilities” and roles for the selected project delivery is fundamental for building trust, honesty and respect. By sharing decades of expertise from a Project Owner, Consultant and Contractor, this Workshop will explore the characteristics, risks, benefits and disadvantages of the various project delivery methods through an application exercise.

“As Owners Representation, this course demonstrated how you could enable each project to have the right method of delivery and allow success to flourish.”

“Very interactive and panel was very knowledgeable.”

“This course is highly informative and If you are experienced, this course offers you tons of inputs from different aspects of all parties in a construction project.”

Proposal Pursuit – “RFQ & RFP Strategies for Success!” w/Multi-Disciplinary Trainers

January 30, 31, Feb 1

7:30 - 11:30 AM PDT

May 29, 30, 31, 2024

7:30 - 11:30 AM DST

It's no longer just a low bid world! Project Owners are seeking construction expertise through pre-qualification or the Request For Proposal process. Whether you are the Project Owner seeking proposals, the Consultant creating, reviewing or participating in proposals or the Contractors responding to them, we ALL need to do it well for the success of the project. This workshop will share decades of expertise from a Project Owner, Consultant and Contractor on how to make sure each partner is successful in the proposal pursuit. Working together you will practice “strategies for success”.

“This course was a great virtual instructor led with multiple expertise perspectives covered from the presenters. Very interactive with the class and great real life experience situations shared. High value for new and experienced participants.”

“Engaging course with lots of practice and helpful input from real world clients.”

“Timely, very complete with regards to the listed content and will enhance the skill sets of any pursuit BD team in today's RFP environment.”

Managing CCDC Contracts for Project Success – “Do your Job!” w/ Multi-Disciplinary Trainers

Nov 21, 22, 23, 2023 7:30 - 11:30 AM PDT

Feb 21, 22, 23, 2024 7:30 - 11:30 AM PDT

By sharing decades of expertise from the training team, this workshop will help you to understand the roles, responsibilities and expectations of the CCDC contract clauses that are our commitments to each other. This understanding will empower you to manage and mitigate risk to better ensure your project is successful. When you “KNOW” your job, you can “DO” your job! Be the Project Owner, Consultant or Contractor who is known for “doing the JOB well!”

“This course was full of valuable information on the interpretation of different CCDC contract clauses from the different perspectives of the parties involved. It helps with strategy on how to approach potential situations with the goal of limiting conflict and promoting teamwork. Overall a valuable tool for people within industry and this approach should be more broadly used within industry.”

“A must have for the industry.”

“Run by industry experts, this course helps the participant gain a better understanding of the complexities involved in CCDC clauses. This is done by a combo of group discussions, and the course instructors providing relevant industry examples.”

“Amazing instructors and class. Was well worth my time and will always comeback for more workshops with this group!”

Be Afraid of Supplementaries to CCDC Contracts! – w/Multi-Disciplinary Trainers

Jan 16, 17,18, 2024

8:00 - Noon PDT

The training team will help you to determine the implications to your bid and/or the project when arduous changes are made to standard CCDC and CCA contract clauses (via Supplementary General Conditions) or the Project Owner creates their own onerous contract terms. You should “be afraid” of these contract clauses as they can result in you losing your company! Risk mitigation can only occur with understanding the “why” and “what” of non-standard contract clauses.

“You can have fun while learning, interacting and engaging. What else would you want from training?”

“Invaluable insight into those contract clauses that may be “well” read but not fully understood as far as risks are concerned and hence change the perspective of how tender costs should be evaluated.”

“This is a very good course for a wide range of people in the contracting industry. It covers a good cross section of typical contract clauses. Highly recommended.”

“An informed, rounded panel and engaging participation exercises. Well run. Best construction workshop I’ve taken.”

CCDC 5A+5B: Construction Management Keys to Success w/ Multi-Disciplinary Trainers

Nov 7, 8, 9, 2023

7:30 - 11:30 AM PDT

Feb 27, 28, 28, 2024

8:00 – Noon PDT

June 18, 19, 20, 2024

8:00 – Noon DST

Construction Management (CM) is a great delivery method when done well! CM is about building a collaborative team from the outset of the project. Whether you are the Project Owner, Consultant, General Contractor or Subcontractor, you need to understand your CM roles and responsibilities throughout all project phases: predesign, design, project delivery and post construction. You also need to be well versed in the CM project drivers and concepts in order to fulfil your contractual responsibilities and achieve success. A well-orchestrated Construction Management project drives success for all partners.

“This professionally facilitated workshop provided great insight into the differences between the CCDC 5a and CCDC 5b contracts and which clauses and areas should be carefully reviewed. The facilitator (Debbie Hicks) did an outstanding job keeping the pace on track and involving both the SME and participants.”

“In this course, you will analyze the CCDC 5A and 5B, hear real-life experiences of when these contracts have been used, and understand when to consider the construction management delivery method for a project.”

“This was one of the most valuable courses I’ve done, with real life experience/perspectives from owner/consultant/CM on successful CM contracts. It renews my faith that companies can manage large projects and still keep the humanity in collaborative win-win-win attitude.”

“The panel of instructors delivered a high caliber course with great representation from each perspective of the CCDC 5A & 5B contract (Owner, Consultant, and Construction Manager). Different perspectives were discussed in a constructive and up-lifting way. Information is delivered at a good pace with no wasted time. If you are considering utilizing CM in the future or are currently using it but would like to gain another perspective, this would be a great course to take.”
